BRITISH CONSULATE, PANAMA,

25th November, 1903.

EXCELLENCY:—

I have the honour to report to Your Excellency that the recent events which have occurred here, are likely to lead to the eventual resumption of work on the Canal, but it nevertheless appears to me desirable to issue a warning against any possible contemplated immigration of labourers from Trinidad, in search of employment, for the present.

It is out of the question, for the moment, to indicate with any certainty how many months must elapse before a demand for labour will arise which cannot easily be met by the surplus supply with which we have long been burdened on the Isthmus, but in any case it may be taken for granted that ample notice will be given, as soon as there is any prospect of employment on a large scale, in the construction of the Canal, and in the meantime, an influx of labour in anticipation of such demand should be seriously discouraged, as it would only result in increasing the numbers of the un-employed, and occasioning hardship and disappointment to the immigrants themselves.
